

An Introduction to Personality Disorders in the DSM 5:TR: Strengths and Weaknesses of a Categorical Diagnostic Model

Introduction to PD Section of the DSM 5:TR and description of General Personality
Disorder

Drislane et al (2019)

LeFrance et al. (2013)

Flanagan et al (2003)

Alarcon et al (1995)

Dynamic/Dimensional Model

McWilliams, Chapters 1,2,3,4

Clarkin and Lenzenweger, Chapter 2

Clarkin et al (2007) (paper)

Defense Mechanisms and Personality Structure

McWilliams, Chapters 5,6

Klein, 1947

Interpersonal Model

Attachment Model

Clarkin and Lenzenweger, Chapters 4 and 5. (Chapter 6 is optional)

Cognitive and Behavioral Model

Evolutionary Model

Neurobehavioral Model

Clarkin and Lenzenweger, Chapter 2, 7, 8

Antisocial/Psychopathic Character Structure Part 1

Paper Choices from Antisocial Folder

Antisocial/Psychopathic Character Structure: Additional Discussion

Borderline Character Structure Part 1

Page 9 of 10 Millon, Chapter 19

Borderline Character Structure Part 2

Histrionic Character Structure

McWilliams Chapter 14

Millon Chapter 7

Narcissistic Character Structure

McWilliams Chapter 8

Millon Chapter 8

Paper Choices from Narcissistic Folder

Schizoid, Schizotypal and Paranoid Character Structure

McWilliams Chapter 9, 10

Millon Chapters 14, 18, 20

Dependent, Avoidant and Obsessive Compulsive PDs

McWilliams Chapter 13

Millon Chapters 6, 10, 15